

REAL LIFE ADVENTURES

"Living the Dream"

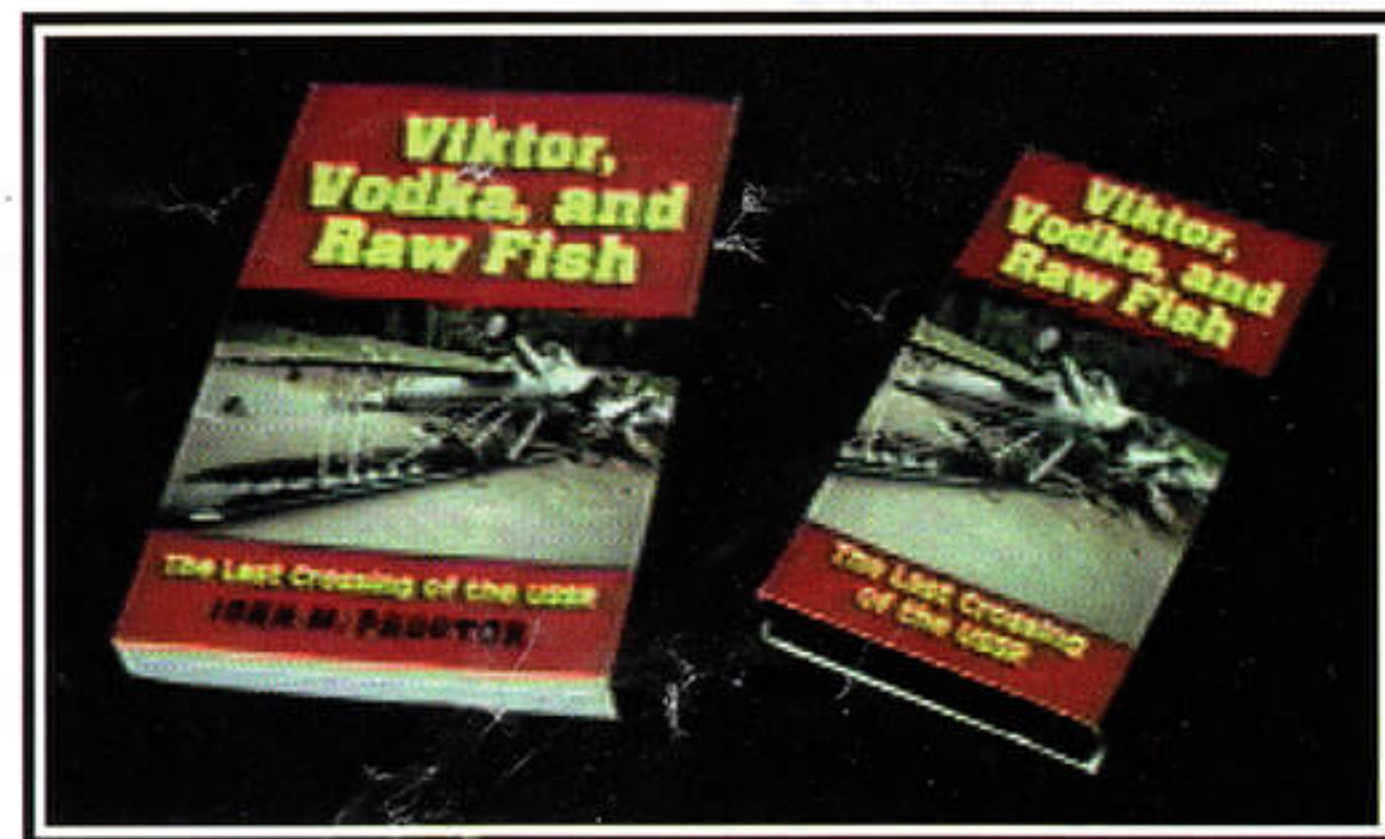

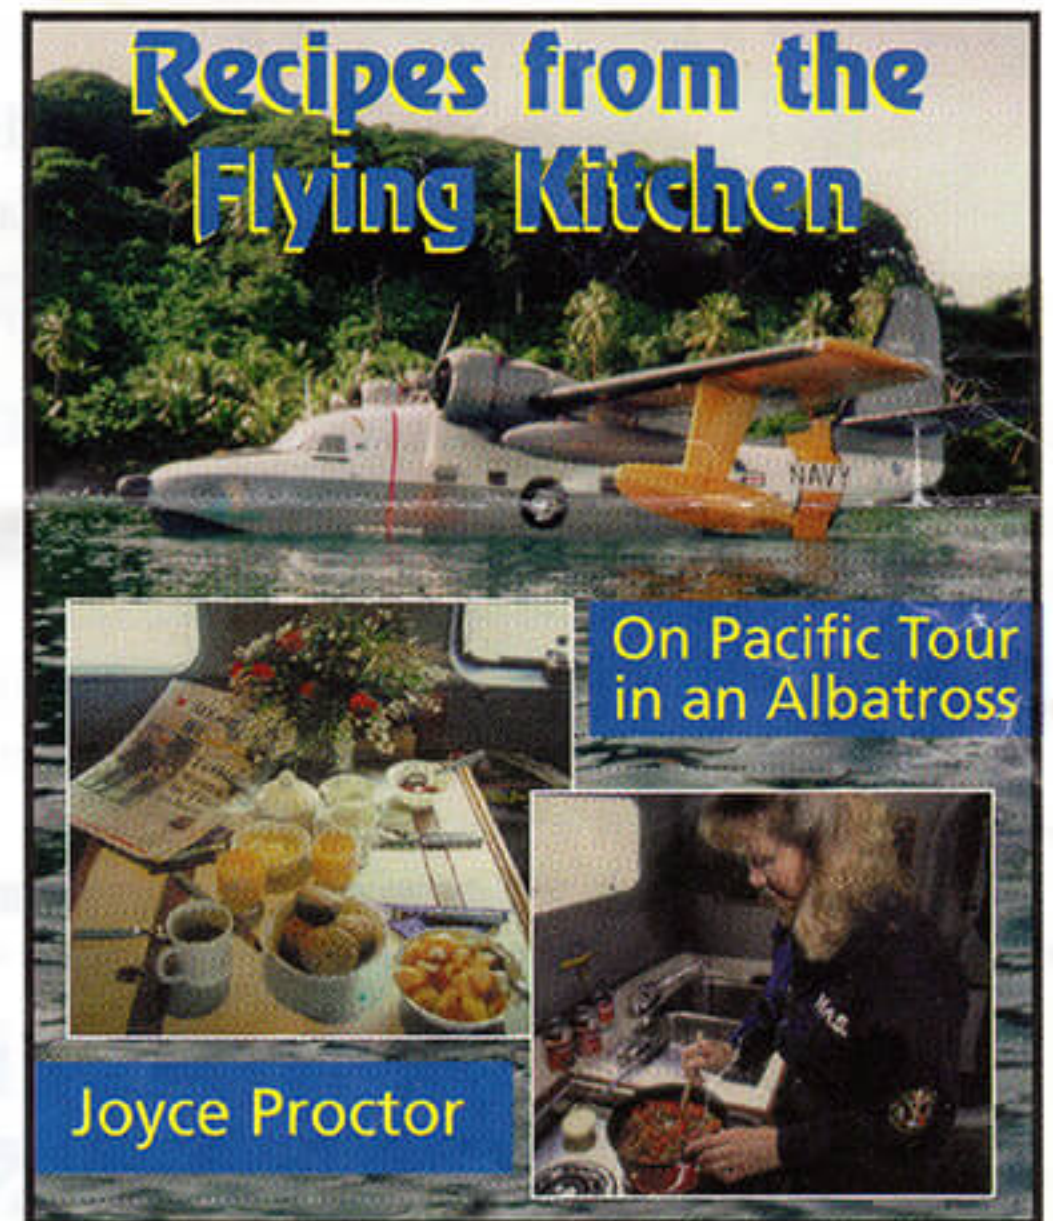

THE BOAT IN THE SKY—The ultimate travelling machine – a Grumman Albatross. Designed in 1944, this antique 30,000 pound ex-U.S. Navy flying boat was converted to a modern yacht. The voyage ranged from ice-filled lakes above the Arctic Circle to the chilly waters of the Tasman Sea, covered 14 months, 35,000 miles, and 12 countries. No ordinary yacht can take off and land in pristine high mountain lakes or landlocked South Pacific lagoons. Join pilots and SCUBA divers Joyce and John Proctor as they travel to exotic lands and seas, such as Siberia and South Pacific cannibal islands, in search of old flying boat bases. 1 hour VIDEO in stereo – $29.95. Available in English or Español.

RECIPES FROM THE FLYING KITCHEN—Tells the story of the adventures of John and Joyce Proctor's 14 month flight of the Albatross, an antique 30,000 pound flying boat. Full of colored photographs and Joyce's recipes, including those collected while travelling through twelve countries.

The Albatross was transformed into the Proctor's home, the equivalent of a 60 foot yacht, including a fully equipped gourmet kitchen, the only one of it's kind in the world. Relive the excitement, the challenges, the disappointments and the rewards when taking on the dream of a lifetime. 200+ page BOOK, full of color photos – $29.95.

VIKTOR, VODKA, AND RAW

FISH—On August 19, 1991, the world watched in awe as the Soviet Union was rocked by a coup d'etat that would change the face of Eastern Europe forever. And just as the Communist era was ending, an American-owned Cessna left Soviet airspace after a flight across Russia to promote international aviation friendship. This captivating tale is told in John Proctor's book and captured on video, produced by cinematographer/pilot Rick Roessler. Due to the adverse conditions of the trip, of the six pilots that began (including famed Russian aerobatic champion Viktor Smolin) John Proctor was the only one who flew the entire route around the world, spending 32 days in Russian airspace. 89 minute VIDEO in stereo – $19.95. 300 page BOOK with 32 color photos – $19.95.

KUDOS FOR THE PROCTORS –

“Living the dream says it all! But it also takes guts to fly a 50 year old, 15 ton antique flying boat, 35,000 miles. John and Joyce did the job! Congratulations and well done!”

Ernest J. King, Director of Development
Space Shuttle Life Support Systems

“Viktor, Vodka and Raw Fish is one of the best documentaries on Russia I have ever seen. A rare glimpse inside the aviation world of the Russian Bear.”

Jim Dalby, President/Chief Executive Officer
San Diego Air and Space Museum

“Aviation is now an everyday routine. The days of adventure are past. But occasionally the delight of pioneering flight is recaptured. John Proctor has obliged – handsomely – with this single engined odyssey along the 8,000 mile length of the Soviet Union, just before its demise.”

Ron Davies
Air Transport Historian and Author

“There are a lot of ‘talkers’ in the aviation business, but only a few ‘doers.’ John is a ‘doer.’ ”

Merv Halliday, Past President
New Zealand Aircraft Owners & Pilots Association (AOPA–NZ)

... And a review by David Cooke in the April 1995 issue of AOPA of Australia magazine –

VICTOR, VODKA AND RAW FISH Book by John M. Proctor

“Can you imagine flying a Cessna 185 across the then USSR? I certainly could not, nor in fact did I know that not only was it possible, but it had been done in 1991 just before the Soviet Union collapsed. I sat down one afternoon to have a quick look at the beginning of this video to decide when to review it and ended up spellbound and riveted to my seat. My wife too, who normally finds something else to do when I watch flying videos, was unable to draw herself away until it was finished. . .”
